Dear Sir

I am writing to protest about the plans to build provide wind turbines in central Anglesey, surely, following all the negative reports about the effect these turbines have on local communities, such a plan should never even be considered. About the only industry left on the Island is tourism, and the desecration caused by these constructions will surely have an impact on local tourism. In addition, wind turbines are inefficient, and have proved to be a health hazard, particularly for young children. I can appreciate that something must be done to combat climate change, but I fail to see how this can be achieved without considering the effect that countries such as China are having. Without them agreeing to cut back on fossil fuels, which quite frankly I cannot see them considering, anything we, as a country, try to do can only have a negligible effect.

It might be worth noting that wind turbines all over America have been allowed to fall into disrepair (long before the advent of President Trump) as they were not found to be effective.

Yours faithfully

B.E.Gall
