1 Construction Noise & Vibration

1.1 Limitations and Assumptions

- 1.1.1 This assessment is based on the construction methodology set out within Chapter 3 of the ES and its appendices. Assessment is made, therefore, based on the currently available information and knowledge of similar schemes. A more detailed assessment of construction noise may be necessary for any Control of Pollution Act (CoPA) Section 61 applications that could be required leading up to and through the construction phase.

1.2 Construction Activities

- 1.2.1 This assessment focusses on construction of the proposed new section of motorway as construction activities associated with the Complementary Measures, including reclassification of the existing M4 as a trunk road, are likely to be relatively insignificant in terms of noise or vibration effects.

- 1.2.2 Construction activities and details are identified in outline in Chapter 3 of this ES, with further detail provided in Appendix 3.1. This sets out a schedule of construction works over an approximately four year period for the proposed new section of motorway.

- 1.2.3 For the purposes of this assessment, the construction works for the proposed new section of motorway have been split into several different sections as described below.

- The west section, including the Castleton Interchange, and Wentlooge/Gwent Levels.
- The central section, including the River Usk Crossing.
- The east section, including the Caldicot/Gwent Levels and the Magor Interchange.

- 1.2.4 Works in all sections would progress in parallel. The main compound would be established to the south of Imperial Park close to the A48 at Coedkernew. Section offices and compounds would be provided at either side of the River Usk Crossing and at the Castleton and Magor Interchanges. Satellite compounds would be established at structure locations (for example, at North Row).

- 1.2.5 Works associated with the Complementary Measures would follow on from the completion of construction of the new motorway, expected to be completed within a further two years.

1.3 Assessment Methodology

Construction Phase

- 1.3.1 The assessment methodology has been provided in Appendix 13.1. It is repeated here for information.

- 1.3.2 The most significant potential impacts during construction are likely to arise from direct construction noise from plant and activities where these are within around

115 m of noise and vibration sensitive receptors (NVSRs). Out of these, works at bridges, cuttings, major earthmoving areas etc. may be the most significant as these may last for an extended duration at specific locations and may occur outside normal daytime working hours. Other activities, such as embankment construction, unless this includes a haul road, laying the new road surface etc. would be transitory along the length of the new section of motorway, so particular NVSRs would only be affected for a relatively short duration.

1.3.3 The Magor area is underlain by limestone and sandstone and is likely to require a combination of open cut excavation and controlled blasting around the Magor Interchange. It is possible that blasting in other locations would also be required. It is intended that the blasting would be carried out once a day under controlled conditions during the period of major earthworks. Local residents and businesses would be given advanced warning of when the blasting would take place. In addition, blasting may be required in the demolition of the existing Pound Hill Overbridge.

1.3.4 Where blasting is required, mitigation would be implemented to prevent significant effects arising from vibration and air overpressure (noise) at sensitive receptors. This would primarily take the form of blast design, minimising charge weights etc. and best practice to minimise effects. British Standard 6472-2:2008 'Guide to evaluation of human exposure to vibration in buildings. Blast-induced vibration' (British Standard Institution, 2008b) is relevant in this case

1.3.5 The criteria for assessing the noise impact from the road construction works have been based on 'Example Method 2- 5 dB Change' contained within Annex E of BS 5228-1 (British Standards Institution, 2014a). This indicates that:

'Noise levels generated by site activities are deemed to be potentially significant if the total noise (pre-construction ambient plus site noise) exceeds the pre-construction ambient noise by 5 dB or more, subject to lower cut-off values of 65 dB, 55 dB and 45 dB $L_{Aeq,T}$, from site noise alone, for the daytime, evening and night-time periods, respectively; and a duration of one month or more, unless works of a shorter duration are likely to result in significant effect.'

1.3.6 Within this assessment, these criteria have been adopted as the boundary between minor and moderate impact magnitude.

Table 1: Construction Noise Levels - Assessment Criteria for the Determination of Impact Magnitude

Assessment category and threshold value period (L_{Aeq})	Threshold value ¹ , in decibels (dB)
	No / Negligible	Minor	Moderate	Major
Night-time (23.00 to 07.00 hours)	<40	40 - 45	45 – 55	>55
Evenings (19.00 to 23.00 hours weekdays). Weekends (13.00 to 23.00 hours Saturdays and 07.00 to 23.00 hours Sundays)	<50	50 - 55	55 – 65	>65
Daytime (07.00 to 19.00 hours) and Saturdays (07.00 to 13.00 hours)	<60	60 - 65	65 - 75	>75

1) Subject to duration criteria and where ambient noise levels are low.

1.3.7 The calculation method contained within BS 5228-1 (British Standards Institution, 2014a) takes account of the duration of an activity per hour, the 'on-time'; and the attenuation of sound due to the effects of distance, ground attenuation and barriers or topographic features or buildings which act as barriers.

- 1.3.8 The assessment has been based on reasonably expected construction phases, plant items and on-times based on the information provided within BS 5228-1 (British Standards Institution, 2014a) and in Chapter 3: Scheme Construction of the ES.
- 1.3.9 For works near the existing M4 (including those works which could also be categorised as rural or urban), the higher baseline sound levels would indicate that acceptable levels of construction noise would be higher than the lower threshold values for day and night-time working.
- 1.3.10 Where predicted construction noise levels are up to -5 dB below the criteria given in paragraph 1.3.5 above, or of short duration, this has been considered to be a 'No Change' or Negligible adverse magnitude of impact. For works of significant duration (of one month or more, unless works of a shorter duration are likely to result in significant effect): where levels are between 5 dB below and equal to the criteria from paragraph 1.3.5 above, this has been considered to be a minor adverse impact; where the criteria are exceeded by up to 10 dB, this has been considered a moderate adverse impact. Noise levels greater than 10 dB above the criteria have been considered a major adverse impact depending on the context and duration of the works.

Construction Traffic

- 1.3.11 Noise from construction traffic is not expected to result in widespread significant impacts but may affect receptors particularly close to parts of the existing highway network.
- 1.3.12 Table 2 has been used in the assessment of noise impact associated with construction traffic on the local road network and from temporary diversion routes resulting from construction of the Scheme (see Chapter 3: Scheme Construction of the ES). Although for a given noise change, the DMRB indicates a greater magnitude of impact in the short term compared to the long term, the temporary nature of construction works decreases the magnitude of impacts.

Table 2: Classification of Magnitude of Temporary Construction Traffic Noise Impacts

Noise Change $L_{A10, 18h}$	Magnitude of Impact
0 dB	No change
0.1– 2.9 dB	Negligible
3.0 – 4.9 dB	Minor
5.0 – 9.9 dB	Moderate
10.0+ dB	Major

(Source: Table 3.1 Highways Agency et al., 2011)

Vibration

- 1.3.13 The most significant potential impacts are likely to arise from direct construction vibration from plant and activities where these occur within close proximity of NVSRs. A study area of 150 m between source and receptor is used within the assessment, with the anticipated distances at which adverse impacts might occur being well within this. During construction, piling and earthworks at bridges or cuttings may be the most significant as these may last for a longer duration at specific locations and may occur outside normal daytime working hours.

1.3.14 BS 5228-2 'Code of Practice for Noise and Vibration Control on Construction and Open Sites: Part 2: Vibration' (British Standards Institution, 2014b) provides guidance relevant to vibration from construction and demolition. It includes sections on: community relations; vibration and persons on site; neighbourhood nuisance; project supervision; control of vibration and measurement.

1.3.15 As set out in Appendix 13.1, the normal index for predicting and measuring vibration levels from construction is the peak particle velocity (PPV). Based on the levels provided in BS 5228-2 (British Standards Institution, 2009b) Table B.1, a criterion of 1 mm/s has been taken as the onset of a significant impact for vibration on people due to construction activities. The level marks where 'It is likely that vibration of this level in residential environments will cause complaint, but can be tolerated if prior warning and explanation has been given to residents.' This criterion relates to human response, with the level corresponding to the onset of cosmetic building damage being an order of magnitude greater.

1.3.16 BS 5228-2, Table B.2, provides limits for transient vibration above which cosmetic damage, i.e. non-structural, could occur. These are a peak particle velocity of 15 mm/s for transient vibration at frequencies below 15 Hertz (Hz) and 20 mm/s at frequencies above 15 Hz. A building of historic value should not, unless it is structurally unsound, be assumed to be more sensitive.

1.3.17 Criteria for assessing whether or not effects of construction vibration are likely to be significant relative to the potential for damage to buildings are based on the levels given in Table B.2 of BS 5228-2 (British Standards Institution, 2014b) as reproduced below in Table 3.

Table 3: Threshold Vibration Values for the Evaluation of Cosmetic Building Damage (BS 5228-2:2009+A1:2014)

Building Classification	Frequency of Range of Vibration (Hz)	PPV mm/s
		Transient Vibration	Continuous Vibration
Unreinforced or light framed structures Residential or light commercial type buildings	4 Hz to 15 Hz	15 mm/s at 4 Hz increasing to 20 mm/s at 15 Hz	7.5 mm/s at 4 Hz increasing to 10 mm/s at 15 Hz
	15 Hz and above	20 mm/s at 15 Hz increasing to 50 mm/s at 40 Hz and above	10 mm/s at 15 Hz increasing to 25 mm/s at 40 Hz and above
Reinforced or framed structures Industrial and heavy commercial buildings	4 Hz and above	50	25

1.3.18 Where blasting is required, mitigation would be implemented to prevent significant effects from vibration at sensitive receptors. With regard to criteria, in addition to those for the effects upon structures provided in Table 3, BS 6472-2:2008 (British Standards Institution, 2008b), provides guidance on acceptable levels of vibration and air overpressure relative to human exposure. Appropriate limits would be set based upon those relating to building damage in Table 3 and those relating to human exposure in BS 6472-2:2008's Table 1 and Section 7. The Construction Environmental Management Plan (CEMP) will set out the necessary measures to ensure compliance with these. A Pre-CEMP is provided at Appendix 3.2 of this ES.

- 1.3.19 Vibration from construction traffic is not expected to result in widespread significant impacts but may affect receptors particularly close to parts of the existing highway network or haul roads.

1.4 Baseline Sound Monitoring

- 1.4.1 The baseline sound monitoring was undertaken between Tuesday 23rd June 2015 and Thursday 23rd July 2015. In total, 15 part attended long term, continuous surveys were completed, ranging from 7 to 16 days in duration and 28 fully attended short term surveys of 3 hours duration were completed during the daytime period. The majority of the survey period fell within school term time, with the local schools' summer term ending 20th July 2015; the last two surveys to be collected ran into the holiday period by three days, having logged data during term time for at least one week. Baseline data are provided in Appendix 13.2.

- 1.4.2 In summary, whilst noise levels vary from location to location and from day to day, it is considered useful to provide quantitative sound levels that are representative of general areas. These have been interpreted from the baseline surveys and may not be appropriate in all situations. Where baseline noise levels for a specific area are required, the baseline survey data have been used directly. The general characterisation of baseline sound levels in the study area is set out in Table 4.

Table 4: General Characterisation of Baseline Sound Levels

	Daytime (07:00 – 23:00)		Night time (23:00 – 07:00)
	$L_{Aeq, 16hr}$	$L_{A90, 16hr}$	$L_{Aeq, 8hr}$	$L_{A90, 8hr}$
Near existing M4	55 - 65 dB	45 - 55 dB	50 - 60 dB	40 - 50 dB
Urban areas	45 - 55 dB	35 - 45 dB	40 - 50 dB	30 - 40 dB
Rural areas	40 - 50 dB	30 - 40 dB	35 - 45 dB	25 - 35 dB

- 1.4.3 From the survey data, the $L_{Aeq, 18hr}$ does not significantly differ from the $L_{Aeq, 16hr}$. The L_{A10} levels for daytime and night time are, on average, 2 to or 3 dB higher than for the corresponding L_{Aeq} day/night period, respectively.

- 1.4.4 As an indication of the lower noise level typically experienced away from urban areas, a level of 40 dB $L_{Aeq, 16hr}$ has been adopted. This equates to a level of 42 dB $L_{A10, 18hr}$. It should be noted that these are average levels for the period 06:00 to 24:00 hours and noise levels may occasionally fall below these average levels from time to time during this period and at night, i.e. between 00:00 and 06:00 hours.

- 1.4.5 With regards to the criteria for assessment of construction noise, this is stated as:

'Noise levels generated by site activities are deemed to be potentially significant if the total noise (pre-construction ambient plus site noise) exceeds the pre-construction ambient noise by 5 dB or more, subject to lower cut-off values of 65 dB, 55 dB and 45 dB $L_{Aeq, T}$ from site noise alone, for the daytime, evening and night-time periods, respectively; and a duration of one month or more, unless works of a shorter duration are likely to result in significant effect.'

1.5 Construction Noise

Hours of Work

- 1.5.1 Proposed working hours are set out in Chapter 3 of this ES. The normal working hours would be 07.00 to 19.00 hours Monday to Friday; and 07.00 to 17.00 hours on Saturdays. The majority of construction activities would be undertaken within this period. In certain circumstances, specific works may have to be undertaken outside the normal working hours. Night working would also be required in some cases. This would include work to be carried out with enhanced safety requirements and, in some cases, to minimise disruption to daytime road users. These works would include the demolition of the existing overbridges at the A48(M) and Pound Hill and the installation of the decks on the underbridges and overbridges at the Castleton Interchange.
- 1.5.2 Any working outside the normal hours would be agreed with the local Environmental Health Officer through the CoPA Section 61 process and local residents would be informed. Site working hours would be closely managed to minimise the disruption to local residents and businesses. On a few occasions, weekend closures of the highway would be required where 24 hour working is needed for some essential and complex operations.
- 1.5.3 For this construction assessment, normal working hours coincide with the daytime period. The evening criteria have been used for all works outside these hours but between 07:00 and 23:00 (including weekends); night-time criteria have been used for all works between 23:00 and 07:00 hours.

Construction Activities

- 1.5.4 Predictions of noise arising from works associated with the River Usk Crossing; earthworks; other structures; and roadwork elements, have been undertaken using the reference source levels and the methodology in BS 5228-1 for distances up to 2000 m from the associated temporary or permanent land take. As noise source terms for plant are given at 10 m from the item of plant, corrections have been made for attenuation due to distance and soft ground, together with the assumed percentage on-time of each item of plant (e.g. the amount of time the equipment is operating over a typical construction day). Construction activity assumptions are provided in Annex A and construction calculations are provided in Annex B.
- 1.5.5 The intensity and duration of works would vary largely between worksites. For the purpose of this assessment, it is assumed that any area identified as temporary or permanent land take may be used as a worksite for a significant duration.
- 1.5.6 Activities have been predicted as occurring simultaneously, at the same location, although, in practice, this is unlikely to be the case except during the most intensive periods of the construction phase and therefore the calculations are thus considered robust, i.e. they should be worst case. In addition, noise levels from construction activities would be influenced by several factors including: the type of plant; the percentage on-time; the magnitude, duration and frequency of the activity; the actual distance between the worksite and the nearest noise sensitive receptors (NVSRS); and any screening, e.g. from existing buildings, barriers and/or landforms.

1.5.7 A range of mitigation measures would be deployed, as appropriate, to minimise noise emissions as far as is reasonably practicable. In places, site hoardings and portable acoustic barriers would be used to reduce noise emissions from specific worksite compounds but the acoustic performance of these barriers would depend on their siting, height and the character of works. Attenuation provided by site hoardings has not been included in this assessment. However, BS 5228-1 indicates that 10 to 20 dB attenuation may be achieved during the construction phase by selecting the most appropriate plant, equipment and enclosing and/or screening noisier items of plant or equipment.

1.5.8 Construction works have been separated into several categories: earthworks; roadwork elements; other structures; and River Usk Crossing (piling & ancillary equipment; main operations). Of these, the earthworks activity has been identified as the noisiest, with driven piling also a noisy source/activity. However, all activities are predicted to be within 7 dB of this most noisy earthworks, which is within the expected variation expected day-to-day across all works. Construction noise levels would also vary significantly over time and from location to location.

1.5.9 A summary of the estimated magnitude of impact and significance of effect is provided in Annex B and summarised in Table 5. The range of magnitude of impact equates to the different construction activities.

Table 5: Construction Noise Distance Thresholds – Daytime, Rural/Urban

Distance between Worksite and NVSR	Magnitude of Impact	Significance of Effect
25 m from worksite	Major	Moderate or Large
50 m from worksite	Moderate	Moderate
75 m from worksite	Minor to Moderate	Slight or Moderate
100 m from worksite	Minor to Moderate	Slight or Moderate
125 m from worksite	Negligible to Minor	Neutral or Slight
150 m from worksite	Negligible to Minor	Neutral or Slight
200 m from worksite	Negligible	Neutral or Slight
250 m from worksite	Negligible	Neutral or Slight
300 m from worksite	No Change to Negligible	Neutral or Slight
400 m from worksite	No Change to Negligible	Neutral or Slight
500 m from worksite	No Change	Neutral
750 m from worksite	No Change	Neutral
1000 m from worksite	No Change	Neutral

1.5.10 The majority of all construction works would be undertaken during the daytime period.

1.5.11 Calculations indicate that, without any specific mitigation, the predicted noise level from plant and activities associated with the construction phase is estimated to be in the region of 68 to 74 dB at 50 m from the worksite, 60 to 66 dB at 100 m from the worksite, 50 to 56 dB at 250 m from the worksite and 43 to 49 dB at 500 m from the worksite, as identified in Table 5. Calculations are provided in Annex B.

1.5.12 Within the expected variation of construction noise predictions, it is appropriate to approximate these distances for daytime works as: major impacts within approximately 45 m of a worksite; moderate impacts within approximately 115 m of a worksite; and minor impacts within approximately 180 m of a worksite.

These distance bands are shown in Figure 1. A summary of the properties within each band is provided in Table 6 below.

- 1.5.13 Within these distances of the temporary or permanent land take, moderate to large adverse effects may occur, depending on the magnitude of impact and duration of the works, without mitigation.

Table 6: Summary of Construction Effects

Impact	Buffer distance	Number of residential NVSRs potentially affected	Significance of Effect
Major	45 m	166	Moderate or Large	Significant
Moderate	115 m	326	Moderate	Significant
Minor	180 m	328	Slight	Not significant

- 1.5.14 Subject to the nature and duration of the works, properties within these distance bands have been identified, and are listed in Annex C. Clusters of properties potentially significantly or slightly affected are around Castleton, Coedkernew, Magor/Undy, and the Beeches Caravan Park.

- 1.5.15 Residential NVSRs within around 115 m of any worksite are considered likely experience a moderate or major adverse impact. This would result in significant effects (moderate or large adverse), which would be temporary and occur only during the most intense periods of construction. There are approximately 492 residential properties within 115 m of the proposed construction works who may experience a moderate adverse effect from construction noise. Of these, 166 properties fall within 45 m and may experience a major adverse magnitude of impact, leading to a moderate or large significance of effect.

- 1.5.16 Approximately 328 further residential properties have been identified within 180 m of the temporary land take area, who may experience a minor adverse impact, leading to an effect of slight adverse significance.

- 1.5.17 At some locations, more substantial construction works may be required, for example, where more major earthworks or piled foundations occur. Whilst these, without additional mitigation, have the potential to adversely affect properties beyond the 115 m corridor identified above, the shorter duration of such works and appropriate control of noise emissions would mean that few, if any, additional properties would experience a significant adverse effect. In addition, seven non-residential NVSRs have been identified as potentially significantly affected. These are:

- Nash Baptist Chapel, Meadows Road, Newport, NP18 2BU - now understood to be in residential use;
- Greenfields Nursery, Magor Court, Newport Road, Magor, Monmouthshire, Caldicot, NP26, 3BZ;
- The Old Court, Old Court Farm, Caldicot Road, Rogiet, Monmouthshire, Caldicot, NP26 3UR;
- Church Of St Michael And All Saints, Caldicot Road, Rogiet, Monmouthshire, NP26 3UR;
- Hampton By Hilton Hotel, Wales 1 Business Park, Newport Road, Magor, Monmouthshire, Caldicot, NP26 3DG;

- Appletree Nurseries Limited, Wales 1 Business Park, Newport Road, Magor, Monmouthshire, NP26 3DG; and
- Premier Inn, Newport Road, Castleton, Newport, Cardiff, CF3 2UQ.

1.5.18 Significant or regular construction activities are not anticipated to occur within the evening or night periods. In the event that such works were to occur, however, and at a similar intensity to that for the day, the following effects would be anticipated.

- Evening works: Receptors within approximately 113 m from a construction worksite may experience a major adverse impact due to construction noise. Between approximately 113 and 283 m from a worksite, a moderate impact may occur. Minor impacts may occur within approximately 448 m from worksite, with a negligible magnitude of impact predicted beyond this distance.
- Night time works: Receptors within approximately 283 m from a construction worksite may experience a major adverse impact due to construction noise; between approximately 283 and 710 m from a worksite, a moderate impact may occur. Minor impacts may occur within approximately 1,125 m from a worksite, with a negligible magnitude of impact predicted beyond this distance.

1.5.19 Other night time construction activities would only occur for exceptional works; for example lifting a bridge structure into place. In accordance with the Pre-CEMP, such works would be carefully controlled and monitored to ensure any adverse effects were minimised. Prior consent would be sought through the CoPA Section 61 process.

1.5.20 For works associated with the Complementary Measures, no significant noise emissions are predicted and any impact would be negligible.

Construction Road Traffic Noise

1.5.21 DMRB (Volume 11, Section 3, Part 7 HD 213/11. Annex 1, Page A1/3) states that:

'A change in noise level of 1 dB $L_{A10,18h}$ is equivalent to a 25 % increase or a 20 % decrease in traffic flow, assuming other factors remain unchanged and a change in noise level of 3 dB $L_{A10,18h}$ is equivalent to a 100 % increase or a 50 % decrease in traffic flow.'

1.5.22 Where the additional traffic significantly increases the percentage heavy goods vehicle (HGV) content, noise changes greater than those indicated in the DMRB may occur. The change can be quantified using the procedure in the Calculation of Road Traffic Noise (CRTN) (Department of Transport/Welsh Office, 1988).

1.5.23 The traffic requirements for the construction of the Scheme are set out in Chapter 3 and Appendix 3.3 of this ES. During the most intensive periods of construction, a significant number of HGVs per day would be required, typically up to 20 – 30 HGVs per hour for each of the key worksites. The magnitude of impact for NVSRs near an access route but remote from any construction site is estimated to be negligible to minor for the majority of HGV movements during the daytime; with moderate impacts only likely to be temporary, occurring during the most intense periods of construction. With regards to residential dwellings, this would be considered of neutral or slight significance, and would not be significant.

1.5.24 The effect of daily HGV movements being added to the existing traffic (based on the 2014 baseline flows) has been considered – calculations are provided in Annex D and are summarised in Table 7.

Table 7: Construction Noise Distance Thresholds – Daytime, Rural/Urban

Magor East Works Access	7659	9.7	105	24	14.5	0.9

*Existing traffic flows were not available for this link

1.5.25 From Table 7, it can be seen that NVSRs adjacent to eight of the 13 links considered would experience a noise change of less than 1 dB; two of the 13 links would experience a noise change of between 1 dB and 3 dB. NVSRs for which road traffic on these links is currently the dominant noise source would, therefore, experience an adverse impact of negligible magnitude. One link, Lighthouse Road, is predicted to experience a noise change of just above 3 dB. NVSRs for which road traffic on Lighthouse Road is currently the dominant noise source would experience an adverse impact of minor magnitude.

1.5.26 For two links, Duffryn Works Access and North Row Works Access, no baseline traffic data have been provided. On inspection of these two links, it is considered that construction traffic noise would not result in a significant adverse effect, due to the separation from residential areas and class of road.

- 1.5.27 For residential receptors, in summary, construction traffic would be of slight adverse significance or less, which is not considered significant within the assessment methodology.

1.6 Construction Vibration

- 1.6.1 The results of the assessment of construction vibration are provided in Annex E for a range of potentially vibratous construction activities. Considered are: pneumatic hammer to break-out existing road-surface; vibratory compaction (steady state); vibratory compaction (start-up/down); percussive piling; and vibratory piling.
- 1.6.2 From the assessment criteria discussed in Appendix 13.1, at a PPV level of 0.3 mm/s, vibration might be just perceptible in residential environments. At 1.0 mm/s PPV, it is likely that vibration of this level in residential environments would cause complaint but can be tolerated if prior warning and explanation has been given to residents.
- 1.6.3 Construction activities associated with the proposed new section of motorway with the potential to result in significant levels of vibration have been identified. These comprise: pneumatic hammer to break-out existing road-surface; vibratory compaction (steady state and start-up / shut down); percussive piling; and vibratory piling.
- 1.6.4 Predictions of these generic activities have been undertaken to establish approximate distances from the works to locations where the threshold of significant effect occurs. When combined with the detailed construction plan, this can be used to identify receptors for which effects may occur.
- 1.6.5 It should be noted that these calculations are based on empirical formula (within BS 5228-2) to give the most likely outcome, and distances would vary with particular activities and ground conditions.
- 1.6.6 Calculations are provided in Annex E, and summarised in Table 8 below.

Table 8: Construction Vibration Distance Thresholds – Daytime, Rural/Urban

- 1.6.7 From the above, no activity would result in a vibration level of above 1 mm/s beyond a distance of around 28 m from the works activity. Beyond around 28 m from works, there would be no significant adverse effect on human receptors.

- 1.6.8 Thresholds for the adverse effects of vibration on buildings and other structures are generally higher than for human receptors. The distance at which such structural adverse effects might occur, therefore, is greater than the 28 m identified above. Notwithstanding this, where structures are known to be highly sensitive (such as historic buildings), a more detailed assessment specific to the proposed construction activity will be undertaken prior to construction.
- 1.6.9 In summary, for the construction activities considered, predicted PPV vibration levels are expected to be less than 1 mm/s at approximately 30 m; and less than 0.3 mm/s beyond around 75 m. On this basis, and with reference to the thresholds of significance adopted for construction vibration effects, even cosmetic damage is not expected to occur at any NVSR. Nor would vibration generally be perceptible within houses assuming normal, competent ground conditions.
- 1.6.10 With appropriate notification of residents and residential dwellings, scheduling, best practice mitigation and monitoring, there would be no significant effect.
- 1.6.11 One gas installation has been identified as being in proximity to the construction works. It is considered that, whilst the gas installation is, by design, of low sensitivity to vibration, the consequence of any adverse vibration effect would be significant. A more detailed assessment specific to the location, installation and proposed construction activity would be undertaken, with a schedule of vibration monitoring, if appropriate prior to construction.
- 1.6.12 Some manufacturing processes are susceptible to adverse effects due to vibration. None have been identified at the time of drafting this ES. Should sensitive processes be identified, however, it would be appropriate to undertake a more detailed assessment specific to the proposed construction activity.
- 1.6.13 Vibration arising from construction activities can result in groundborne noise. Whilst levels re-radiated into the air will be relatively low, there may be ecological effects where noise is re-radiated into a watercourse.
- 1.6.14 The installation of sheet and bored piles associated with the pylon construction for the River Usk Crossing may result in groundborne noise and vibration in and around the Usk saltmarsh area. No piles are proposed within the main watercourse.
- 1.6.15 A description of the proposed activities is given within Appendix 3.1.
- 1.6.16 From these activities, there may be some noise that would pass through the ground and subsequently into the watercourse. Although airborne noise levels are predicted and presented within the assessment, no such information is available for anticipated underwater noise levels.
- 1.6.17 There is a paucity of information and studies relating to the effect of groundborne noise from piling being transmitted into the water column, particularly in relation to vibratory piling. Hazelwood (2012) describes measurements and modelling techniques undertaken to determine the effects of low frequency ground roll waves created during impact piling. The author concludes that low frequency wave (approximately 20 Hz) energy is not well coupled to water and that this energy is thus trapped at the interface, where flatfish etc. may be significantly disturbed. (Crabs, dabs, plaice and sole, cockles and mussels etc.). However, de Haan et al. (2007) shows measurements undertaken during impact piling where the groundborne p-wave is measured. These are of higher frequency (approximately 100 – 150 Hz) and could be better coupled with water compared to ground roll waves. However, both of these studies relate to impact piling as opposed to vibratory piling that is likely to be utilised for this project.

- 1.6.18 Despite the lack of information relating to groundborne noise from vibratory piling in the water, it is considered highly likely that noise levels will be significantly lower than for impact piling. This is because noise generated by vibratory piles will be significantly lower than that produced by impact piling techniques.
- 1.6.19 As part of the project design, a variable moment, frequency vibrator, has been selected to drive the piles for the cofferdam and the pile casings. This type of vibrator has an advantage over a fixed moment unit in that no low frequency vibrations are generated at any time during the work cycle. Vibropiling generates continuous broadband sound; the Compendium of Pile Driving Sound Data (CPSD) (Illinworth and Rodkin, 2007) reports on sound levels measured during vibratory driven sheet piling (such as would be used for the cofferdams), for a port project in water approximately 12 to 14 m deep, as approximately 173 dB r.m.s re μPa m at frequencies of 400 to 2,500 Hz. Consequently, and taking into account the potential damping of groundborne sound over distance, it is anticipated that any groundborne noise will be within this frequency range for vibratory piling.
- 1.6.20 As indicated within Appendix 3.1, test piles are to be installed ahead of the working piles such that the designer has sufficient information to validate the pile design. The installation of the trial piles would mirror the installation of the working piles. As such, “real life” installation conditions should be produced such that any monitoring reflects the conditions likely to be experienced during working pile installation.
- 1.6.21 Whilst the primary purpose of a trial pile is to validate the engineer’s design it also affords the opportunity for the method of installation to be verified and for environmental monitoring to be carried out. During the installation of the trial pile a programme of noise and vibration monitoring can be carried out of airborne noise, noise transmitted through the ground to the water’s edge and ground vibration at monitoring locations between the vibration generator and the water’s edge. The results of such monitoring would indicate whether the installation of working piles conform to appropriate noise and vibration level limits. The survey would also provide empirical evidence of the likely underwater noise levels associated with construction operations and can be used to further inform the ecological assessment with regards to any mitigation measures (such as cofferdams or seasonal restrictions) that may be considered as appropriate.
- 1.6.22 An assessment of effects on ecological receptors is provided within Chapter 10 of the ES: Ecology and Nature Conservation.

1.7 Mitigation Measures

Construction

- 1.7.1 To minimise noise and vibration effects, construction would follow Best Practicable Means (BPM) of Section 72 of the CoPA to minimise noise and vibration effects. Construction details are provided in Chapter 3 of the ES: Scheme Construction and Appendix 3.1.

1.7.2 In terms of the construction programme and activities, the Principal Contractor would engage with the local planning authorities prior to the commencement of construction. Details are set out in the Pre-CEMP which is provided in Appendix 3.2. The Pre-CEMP would be developed into a full CEMP prior to construction.

1.7.3 During construction, a Public Liaison Officer would be responsible for the day-to-day communication with the EHO (or equivalent) and the general public. An Environmental Clerk of Works would be responsible for the day-to-day implementation of the CEMP.

1.7.4 The following mitigation measures are included in the Pre-CEMP and would be carried out as part of the works.

Communication:

- Regularly engaging with stakeholders and the local community before and during the works.
- Informing the community when and where noisy activities are expected to take place and for how long.
- Displaying the project contact details including a 24-hour public helpline on the site notices.

Complaints:

- Putting in place a suitable complaints log and investigation procedure. This procedure will be managed with the use of the Incidents, Complaints and Enquiries Database (ICE).

Working Hours:

- Adopting the working hours set out in Chapter 3 – Scheme Construction. Where work needs to take place outside normal construction hours, this will be discussed with the Local Planning Authority via the Public Liaison Officer and agreed through the CoPA Section 61 process.

Access Routes:

- Routing construction traffic away from NVSRs.

Additional Mitigation during Construction

1.7.5 As an indication of the effectiveness of the temporary noise barriers, it has been assumed that barriers or other temporary screening would provide approximately 10 dB attenuation to noise at ground floor for NVSRs near significant construction works. In practice, the screening attenuation achieved would vary, depending on the topography of the area, spatial separation and the nature of the works. The assessment of impacts with screening in place is, therefore, inherently uncertain.

1.7.6 With the screening measures in place, the numbers of NVSRs adversely affected by construction noise would be reduced.

1.7.7 Within the expected variation of construction noise predictions, it is appropriate to approximate the distances for daytime works as: major impacts within approximately 18 m of a worksite; moderate impacts within approximately 45 m of a worksite; and minor impacts within approximately 71 m of a worksite. A summary of the properties within each band is provided in Table 9 below.

- 1.7.8 Within these distances of the temporary or permanent land take, moderate to large adverse effects may occur, depending on the magnitude of impact and duration of the works.

Table 9: Summary of Construction Effects (with mitigation)

Impact	Buffer distance	Number of residential NVSRs potentially affected	Significance
Major	18 m	68	Moderate or Large	Significant
Moderate	45 m	98	Moderate	Significant
Minor	71 m	107	Slight	Not significant

- 1.7.9 Subject to the nature and duration of the works, properties within these distance bands have been identified, and are listed in Annex C. Clusters of properties potentially significantly or slightly affected are around Castleton, Coedkernew, Magor/Undy, and the Beeches Caravan Park.

- 1.7.10 Residential NVSRs within around 45 m of any worksite are considered likely to experience a moderate or major adverse impact, resulting in effects of moderate or large adverse significance. However, these effects would be temporary, and would occur only during the most intense periods of construction. There are approximately 166 residential properties within 45 m of the construction works who may experience a potentially significant moderate adverse effect from construction noise. Of these, it is estimated that 68 fall within 18 m and may experience a major adverse impact, leading to an effect of moderate or large adverse significance. An estimated 107 properties fall within 45 m to 71 m, and would experience a minor impact, leading to an effect of slight adverse significance. An indication of the properties affected are shown on Figure 2, although the actual properties affected would depend on the detailed nature of the construction works.

- 1.7.11 In addition, four non-residential NVSRs have been identified as potentially significantly affected. These are:

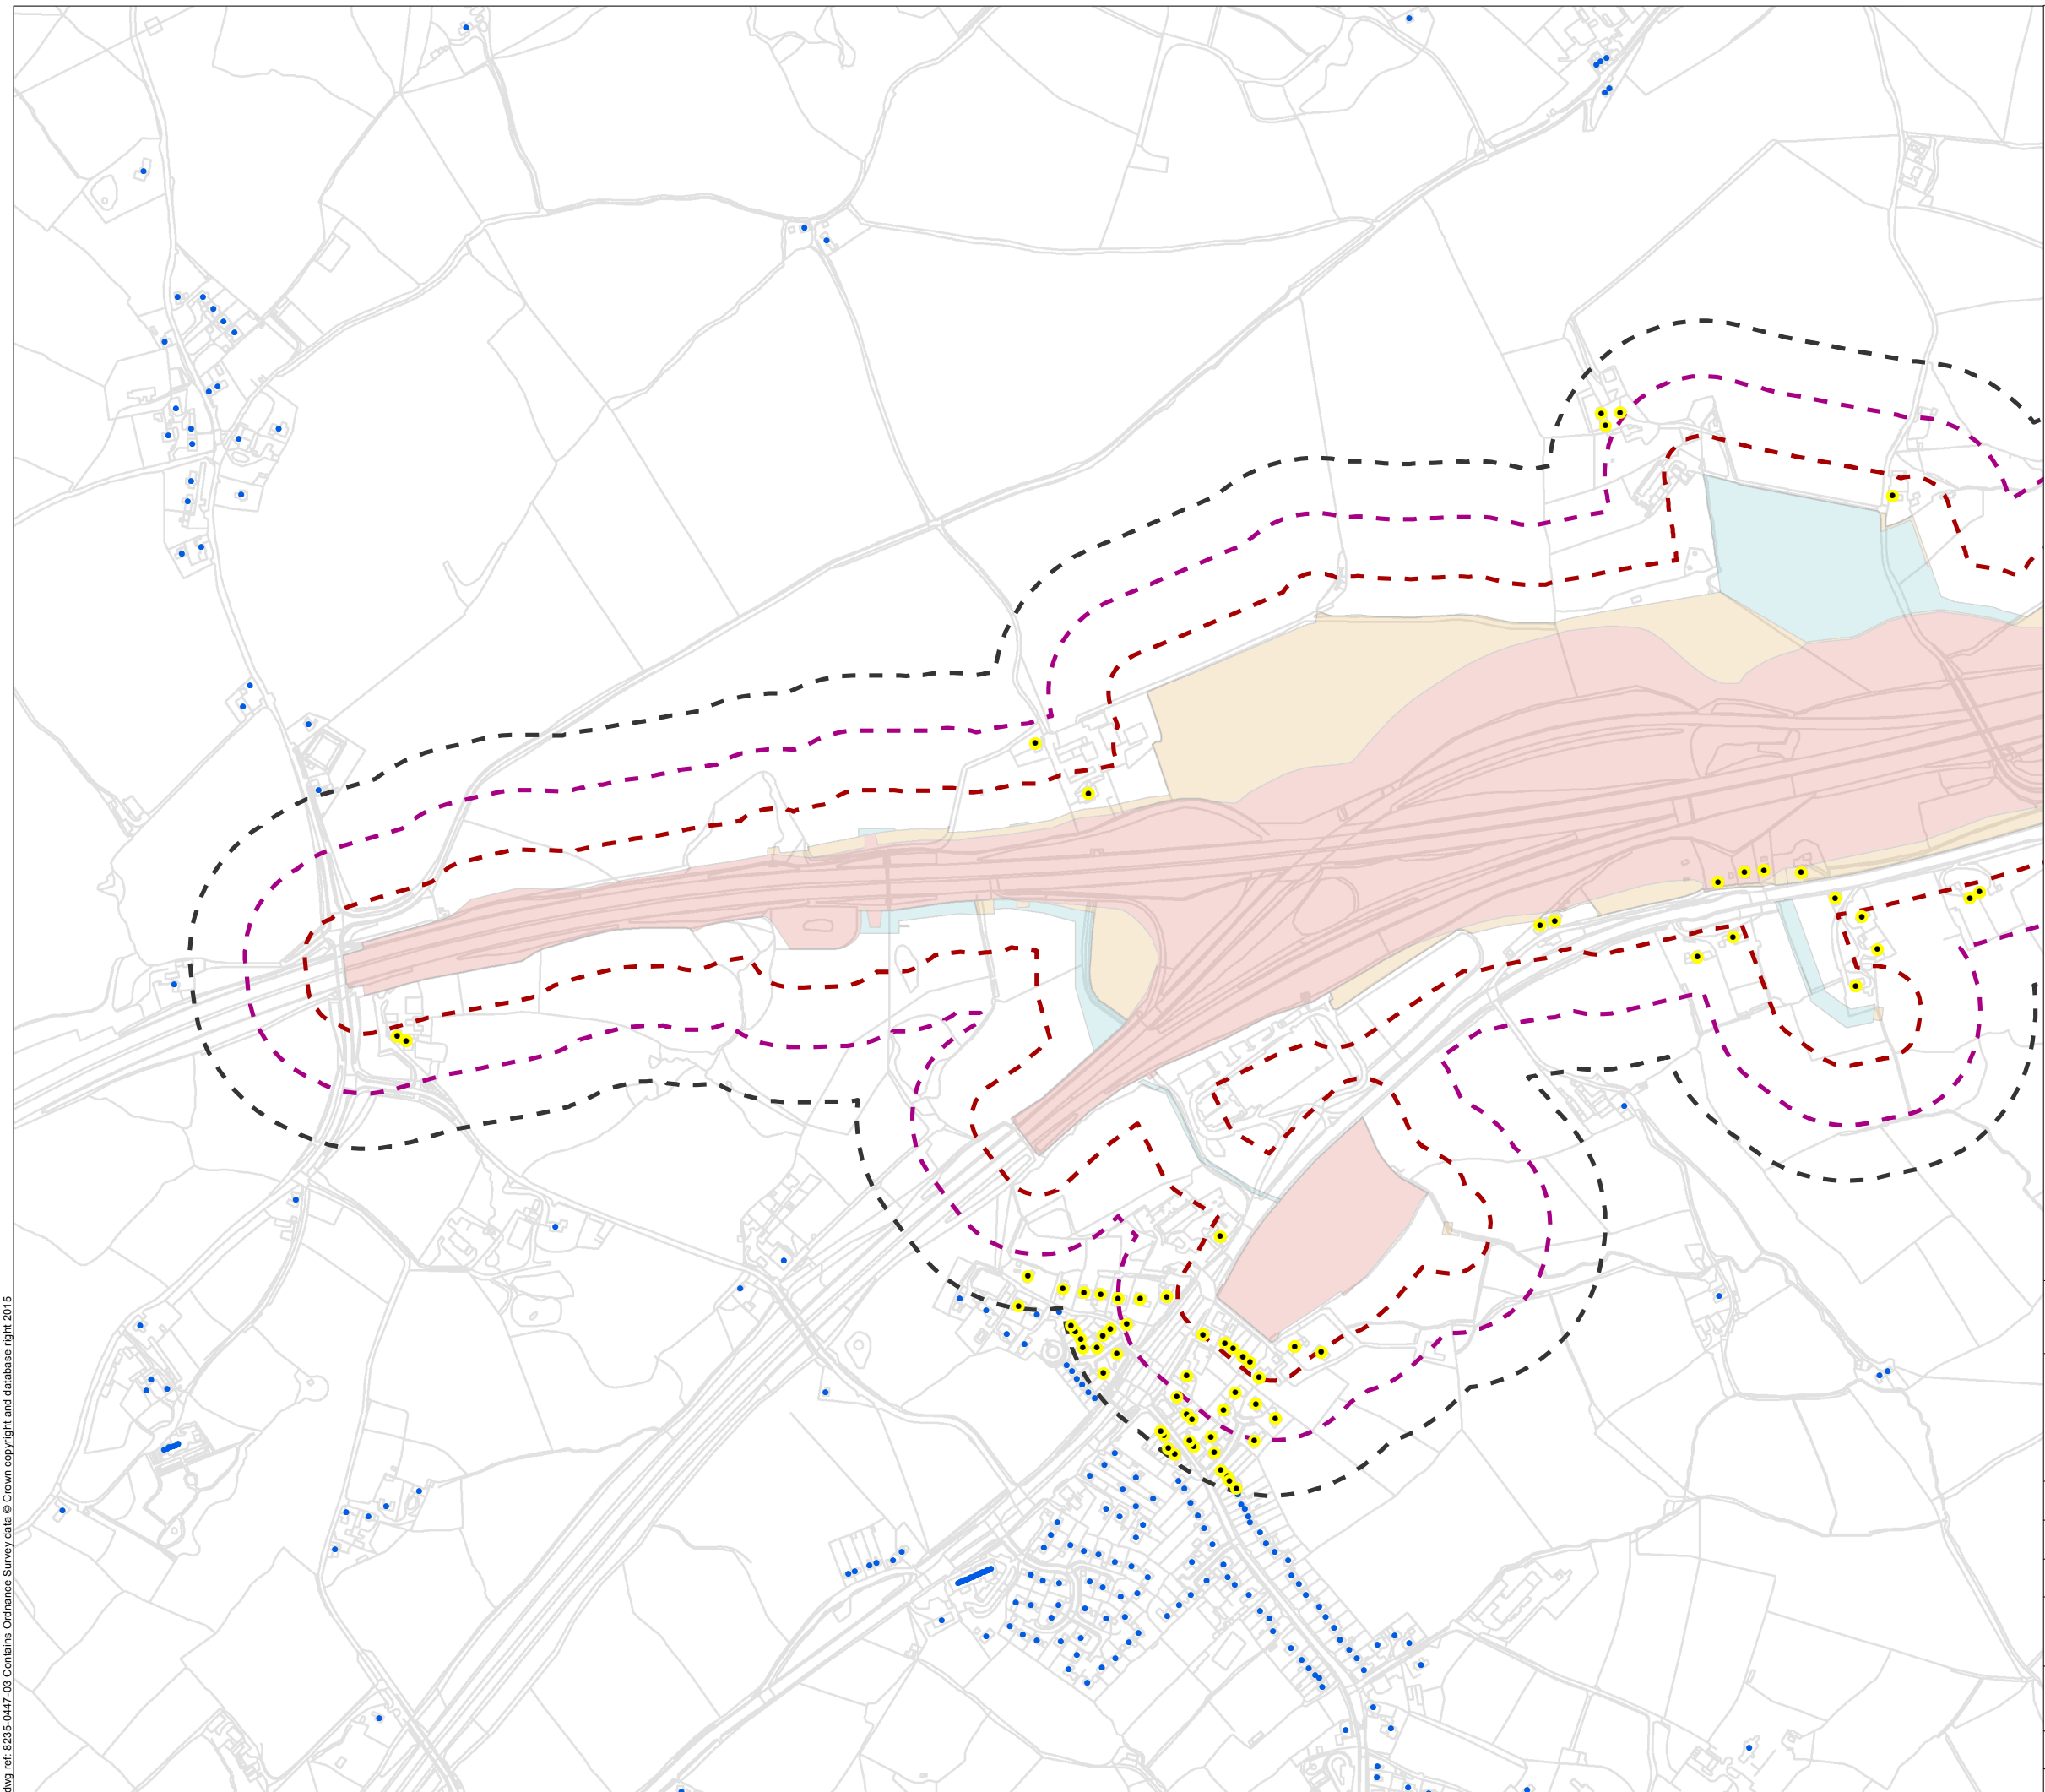

- Nash Baptist Chapel, Meadows Road, Newport, NP18 2BU - now understood to be in residential use;
- Greenfields Nursery, Magor Court, Newport Road, Magor, Monmouthshire, Caldicot, NP26, 3BZ;
- The Old Court, Old Court Farm, Caldicot Road, Rogiet, Monmouthshire, Caldicot, NP26 3UR; and
- Appletree Nurseries Limited, Wales 1 Business Park, Newport Road, Magor, Monmouthshire, NP26 3DG.

- 1.7.12 Beyond the generic mitigation measures discussed, further mitigation suitable to address particular construction sources or processes may be appropriate. These measures will be identified and implemented through the CEMP and ongoing design process.

- 1.7.13 Appropriate further mitigation or operational controls (as implemented through the CEMP) would be required to ensure that any evening or night works do not significantly increase compared to the effects identified above.
- 1.7.14 No additional specific mitigation measures are proposed for control of noise from construction traffic noise.
