The Voluntary Sector Data Hub

Home

The hub is place for evidence exploration about voluntary sector activities including numbers of organisations, sector income, volunteering hours, areas of work, where groups are located and more. Information can be presented in list view and data can be organised by type - gender, age, location, etc.

The Data Hub is intended to help demonstrate the impact of the voluntary sector in Wales.

How do I navigate the hub?

The hub is split into different sections with varying in-depth themes of the voluntary sector. Please explore a section from the table of contents. The right sidebar is dynamic, update on the top right of the report. You can click on the page by clicking the menu icon.

Who wants to know what?

- What do we want to know individually and collectively as voluntary organisations?
- What do citizens want to know?
- What does government want to know? What do different government departments want to know?
- What do different public bodies want to know?
- What does business want to know?

Discussion:

How could we work together to gather robust and useful evidence on the voluntary sector in Wales?
