

27 March 2025

Dear

ATISN 24464 – Hendy Wind Farm

Thank you for your request submitted on 27 February, which I received on the 28 February.

Your request asked for:

- For the Welsh Government to supply all correspondence, meeting notes or other records of communication between the Welsh Government and Officers or Elected Members of Powys County Council relating to Hendy Wind Farm since 25/10/2018.
- For the Welsh Government to supply all correspondence, meeting notes or other records of communication between the Welsh Government and representatives of Hendy Wind Farm, including agents or other representatives, since 25/10/2018.

In relation to the above, we include all the further Planning Applications for Hendy Wind Farm and related infrastructure and grid connection, including for non-material amendments to planning conditions, discharge of planning conditions and consideration of enforcement. We also include any other arrangements relating to finance or construction of Hendy Wind Farm. Some of the planning documents may have been listed under local addresses different from the key application above.

I interpreted your request as asking for information regarding the consenting of the Hendy Wind Farm, the enforcement of any associated planning conditions and the consideration of any call-in requests in respect of the applications to discharge the conditions and the consideration of any enforcement requests made to the Welsh Ministers. On the 18 March we received confirmation that we had interpreted your request correctly.

The information caught by your request constitutes environmental information and has been considered for disclosure under the Environmental Information Regulations ("EIRs"). I have decided some of the information described in the enclosed list is exempt from disclosure under Regulation 13 of the EIRs. The reason for applying this exemption is set out in full at Annex 1 to this letter.

Regulation 13– Personal data

Regulation 13(1) together with the conditions in Regulation 13(2)(a)(i) and 13(2)(a)(ii) provides an absolute exemption if disclosure of the personal data would breach any of the data protection principles.

‘Personal data’ is defined in sections 3(2) and (3) of the Data Protection Act 2018 (‘the DPA 2018’) and means any information relating to an identified or identifiable living individual. An identifiable living individual is one who can be identified, directly or indirectly, in particular by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location data, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to the physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity of the individual.

We have concluded that, in this instance, the information requested contains third party personal data.

Under Regulation 13(1) of the EIRs, personal data is exempt from release if disclosure would breach one of the data protection principles set out in Article 5 of the GDPR. We consider the principle being most relevant in this instance as being the first. This states that personal data must be:

“processed lawfully, fairly and in a transparent manner in relation to the data subject”

The lawful basis that is most relevant in relation to a request for information under the FOIA is Article 6(1)(f). This states:

“processing is necessary for the purposes of the legitimate interests pursued by the controller or by a third party except where such interests are overridden by the interests or fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject which require protection of personal data, in particular where the data subject is a child”.

In considering the application of Article 6(1)(f) in the context of a request for information under FOIA it is necessary to consider the following three-part test:

- The Legitimate interest test: Whether a legitimate interest is being pursued in the request for information;
- The Necessity test: Whether disclosure of the information/confirmation or denial that it is held is necessary to meet the legitimate interest in question;
- The Balancing test: Whether the above interests override the interests, fundamental rights and freedoms of the data subject.

1. Legitimate interests

We have been unable to identify a legitimate interest the requester may have in accessing the personal data of officials within the Welsh Government, Powys County Council or the agent(s) acting on behalf of an applicant.

2. Necessity test

I am not aware of another method via which the requestor could obtain the identities of the parties involved in the correspondence subject to this request. Disclosure under EIR would be necessary to identify the relevant personal data of those parties.

3. Balancing test

In this instance, we believe the individuals would have no expectation that this information would be made public. I therefore find that the data subjects' interests outweigh the legitimate interest in releasing this data. As release of the information would not be legitimate under Article 6(1)(f), and as no other condition of Article 6 is deemed to apply, release of the information would not be lawful within the meaning of the first data protection principle. It has therefore been withheld under Regulation 13 of the EIR. This is an absolute exemption and not subject to the public interest test.
