

Llywodraeth Cymru
Welsh Government

WRITTEN QUESTION
FOR ANSWER BY THE MINISTER FOR CLIMATE CHANGE
ON 20 MARCH 2024

Rhys ab Owen (South Wales Central): What steps is the Welsh Government taking to ensure companies are held to account for discharging sewage into Welsh waterways? (WQ91982)

Julie James: Storm Overflow discharges by water companies are governed by environmental permitting legislation. Wales' environmental regulator, Natural Resources Wales, is responsible for enforcement and has a range of tools to investigate and, where, appropriate, prosecute water companies.

Drafted By: [REDACTED]

Cleared By: Clare Fernandes (Deputy Director, Water & Flood Division)