Subject: RE: ADHD patients moving to Wales

Is if by magic... in coming.

One might anticipate GPC to follow. Shall we meet up.

<redacted s40(2)>, please can you confirm if regarding secondary to secondary care handover for this patient group so at least there are no delays to the patient continuing a prescription? Looks like <redacted s40(2)> is passing to us.

Then we can consider DSS national spec whilst I try to find out about the local spec in CTM as per email attachment.

Thanks,

<redacted s40(2)>.

This would be a good one to tidy up from our end in terms of policy direction when people have come across the border but require ongoing shared care.

But does something like this not already exist in terms of cross-border transfer into secondary care?

The GP shared care element is a bolt on that <redacted s40(2)> and I continue to chew over with the wider shared care agenda to get to a point of consistency.

Hi <redacted s40(2)>

This has come to me today. We intend to not respond directly although I believe there is something happening via our complaints procedure.

I assume that you do not wish to engage with this as we have no national solution in Wales, just forwarding on as a courtesy in case somebody else drops your name in a trail.

Hi <redacted s40(2)>,

Another weird one!

<redacted s40(2)> (Service Manager - Adult Mental Health) has shared the below query which has been received through the CTM Concerns team and I believe we may need to be involved in a resolution for this as it is related to GPs taking on prescribing through shared care.

Please could you share your thoughts on this?

Many Thanks

Subject: ADHD patients moving to Wales

Good afternoon,

I'm hoping you can give me some guidance, or introduce me to the person who can help with regard to patients moving from England to Wales either partway through the ADHD titration pathway, or those who have completed titration and are on a shared care agreement with the English GP. I'm sure this is a scenario that must have arisen before, and we quite often don't find out about the move until after it has happened. Patients aren't always aware of the implications of moving out of England, and assume the NHS is the same nationwide.

Is there some way that we could be accredited so that we could honour the annual reviews, and the Welsh GP could take over routing prescribing? This would avoid the expense of a Welsh consultant having to review and issue a shared care agreement, and would provide greater continuity of care for the patient. Obviously annual reviews would still have to have a tariff attached, but we would be willing to work with you on that point.

I'd be keen to work with you to put in place a proper solution to this issue which seems to be happening more often.

More than happy to schedule a quick meeting if it helps, and many thanks in advance for any information you can share.

Kind regards,

<redacted s40(2)>
