Annex 1

Section 41 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000

Information provided in confidence.

(1) Information is exempt information if—

- (a) it was obtained by the public authority from any other person (including another public authority), and
- (b) the disclosure of the information to the public (otherwise than under this Act) by the public authority holding it would constitute a breach of confidence actionable by that or any other person.

The data was provided in confidence by the organisations involved. I have also considered whether some of the data could be released in redacted form. However, as the raw data itself could identify one or more of the organisations I have concluded that it cannot be released.

Section 41 is an absolute exemption and does not require a public interest test.
